SECTION 3: READING COMPREHENSION (10 marks)

Task: Read the text below and answer the questions that follow it.

Online learning is the newest and most popular form of distance education today. Within the past decade it had a major impact on post-secondary education and the trend is increasing. Online learning is education that takes place over internet. It is often referred to as "e-learning" among other terms. However, online learning is just one type of "distance learning", the umbrella term for any learning that takes place across distance and not in a traditional classroom. Distance learning has a long history and there are several types available today: correspondence courses (conducted through regular mail with little interaction), CD-ROM courses (where the student interacts with static computer), Tele courses (where content is delivered via radio or television broadcast), Online learning (internet-based courses offered synchronic and/or asynchronously), and Mobile learning (by means of devices such as cellular phones and digital audio players).

Online distance learning is an instructional system which connects learners with educational resources. Students work on their own at home, at work, or at school and communicate with faculty and other students via e-mail, electronic forums, bulletin boards, instant messaging and other forms of computer-based communication. There are both advantages to online distance learning.

There are many benefits in using online distance learning environments. Online education is available all the time and anywhere. However, there are drawbacks for some learners. The online learner only has the written text and no other face to face cues. This may confuse the learner and cause misunderstanding. While distance learning allows for openness, it is also cumbersome because it is done by small messages and writing and therefore may take more time than face-to-face learning.

Why online distance learning and why now? Online distance learning meets the needs of an ever-increasing population of students who cannot or prefer not to participate in traditional classroom setting. These learners include those unable to attend traditional classes due to the COVID-19 pandemic, who cannot find a particular class at a chosen institution, who live in remote locations, who work full-time and can only study at or after work, and those who simply prefer to learn independently.

The minimum requirement for students to participate in an online course is access to a computer, the internet and the motivation to succeed in a non-traditional classroom. Online courses provide an excellent method of course delivery unbound by time or location, allowing for accessibility to instruction at anytime from anywhere. Learners find the online environment a convenient way to fit education into their busy lives. The ability to access a course from any computer with internet access, 24 hours a day, seven days a week is tremendous for many students.

SECTION D: COMPOSITION (10 MARKS)

Task: Choose ONE of the topics below and write a composition of about 250 to 300 words.

1) You have noticed an increase in the number of teenage pregnancies in your village. Many of these young girls cannot continue schooling because their parents think they should marry and do odd jobs. As a community youth leader, you have asked, on the occasion of the celebration of the Youth Day, to address the parents of these youths on the causes of teenage pregnancies and what can be done to reduce or stop this phenomenon. Also encourage them with valid reasons not to stop educating their pregnant teenage daughters.

2) You were involved in a fight in school and have been suspended from classes by the school Disciplinary Council. Write a letter of apology to your father who has heard about the incident and is very angry. You may explain the cause of the fight and also make a serious commitment never to fight again. Your name is Adrienne, and you are a student of GBHS Likundo.

3) Many people are of the opinion that modern technology is doing more harm than good. Write an essay in which you examine both the positive and negative sides of modern technology. Give concrete examples to support your point of view
