SECTION C: READING COMPREHENSION (10 MARKS)

Read the text and then answer the following questions.

When my mother was young, there were no telephones or emails. There were no radios or televisions. There were no newspapers. A messenger walked or rode a donkey from one village to another. He was called the town crier. He called out the message in a loud voice or he blew a horn. Sometimes he played the xylophone or he beat a drum. Some people shut the guns to send their message. They use that method to invite people for celebration.

Times have changed. Today people can send and receive letters by post. They listen to the radio and watch television. They read the newspapers. The mobile phone has replaced the telephone in many villages. You can send text message on mobile phone as well as telephoning. In the cities more and more people use the internet. They send and receive e-mails on their computers.

The world today is becoming a "global village". Communication technology has changed our lives. We know about what is happening in other parts of the world. We can even watch football matches in France and in Cameroon at the same time.
