SECTION D: COMPOSITION /10 marks

Task: Read the text carefully and provide answers to the following questions.

The name 'Cameroon' derived from the term used for the Wouri River by Portuguese explorers. Reaching the Cameroon coast near the modern port city of Douala around 1472, those explorers named the river Rio dos Camaroës ("River of Prawns") after the variety of crayfish they found there. This name later was applied to the coastal area between Mount Cameroon and Rio Muni. Cameroon has distinct regional cultural, religious, and political traditions as well as ethnic variety. The division of the country into British- and French-ruled League of Nations mandates after World War I created Anglophone and Francophone regions. The English-speaking region consists of the Southwest and Northwest provinces, where Pidgin English is the lingua franca and English is taught in school. The educational system and legal practices derive from those of England. The French-speaking region consists of the remaining eight regions, where French is the lingua franca, the French school system is used, and the legal system is based on the statutory law of continental Europe. This region is dominant in numbers and power. Tension between the two regions increased after the introduction of a multiparty political system in the 1990s. The English-speaking region is divided into two cultural regions. The Grass fields peoples of the Northwest region consist of nearly one hundred chiefdoms each ruled by a divine king (fon). Most of these chiefdoms have patrilineal or dual descent kinship systems, although some groups, such as the Kom, are matrilineal. Polygyny and fertility are important cultural values, although this varies by wealth and education. The social organization and culture of the Grass fielders are closely related to those of the French-speaking Bamiléké peoples of the Western region.

QUESTIONS

- 1- Why was the river named Rio dos Camaroës?

- 2- Who were the first Europeans to explore the Cameroon coast?

- 3- What are the official languages in Cameroon?

4- When was multiparty politics introduced in Cameroon.?

5- Is it important to know about the history and culture of your country? Justify your answer.

Essay Topic:

You are a newcomer in Father Monti Bilingual College. Introduce yourself by giving:

- Your name
- Your region of origin
- Your tribe
- Your mother tongue

- Your main dish
- Your traditional festival (if any)
- Some cultural aspects you don't appreciate in your tribe
- What you like in your tribe
- What you do to live in peace and harmony with others.

Sample Essay:

Hello everyone,

My name is John Mbah, and I am from the Northwest Region of Cameroon. I belong to the Kom tribe, and my mother tongue is Kom. My favorite main dish is achu soup, which is a traditional meal in my tribe. We celebrate the Nso Festival, a cultural event that brings people together to celebrate our heritage.

However, there are some cultural aspects in my tribe that I don't appreciate, such as early marriages, which I believe limit the opportunities for young girls. On the other hand, I love the strong sense of community in my tribe, where everyone supports each other in times of need.

To live in peace and harmony with others, I always try to respect people's opinions, listen to others, and avoid conflicts. I believe that understanding and accepting differences are key to building a peaceful society.

Thank you for listening, and I look forward to getting to know all of you better.
