Carefully read the following passage and answer the question that follows.

“Artist finds success as entrepreneur”.

Donna Mae Montgomery always knew she was talented. She wrote her first poem at age eight and has studied and created art ever since. She experimented with photography, ceramics sculpture and painting. Despite this rich background, it was only recently that Donna Mae found a way of using her talents to become an entrepreneur. An idea for a small business was born several years ago during a visit to a museum bookstore where she noticed a pin made of plastic. Today, she creates jewellery from plastic.

Her creation includes “Folk Dada” pins that feature richly painted characters drawn in a naïve or surreal style, each with its own story. She also makes a line of jewellery in a more romantic style. “the base of my work is collage, taking different imagery, putting it together, and using the copy machine to print it”, says Montgomery designs directly onto the plastic, which is then cut and baked in the oven to make the designs smaller.

Montgomery attributes her creativity to a difficult and abusive childhood in New Mexico; she was forbidden to read books, make friends or learn and explore like other children. In response, she retreated into a private and imaginary world- a world that has strengthened her ever since. “I think that’s part of my creativity. I had to create my own world in order to survive.

Although she suffered from dyslexia, epilepsy, and post-traumatic stress disorder (a problem that affects those who have endured long periods of intense abuse), Montgomery left home at 17. She worked as a secretary and as a law librarian, but her emotional problems and dyslexia always defeated her in the end. “Even though I knew I was intelligent, I would always get fired-either because I couldn’t spell or because I couldn’t handle things emotionally. She struggled on and off for years, working part-time while taking art classes to feed her creative passions.

At 48, Montgomery started experimenting with plastic- finding it both a cheap and an exciting creative medium- while taking a class at Fort Mason Arts Centre. She started selling a few of her photocopy-inspired pieces in small stores and received an excellent response.

Realising that she had the potential for a business, Montgomery joined San Francisco’s Initiative for self – employment’s “Women Mean Business Project”. She says, it’s like a dream come true for someone like myself! Montgomery completed a business-planning course and went on to work with a project consultant to develop her own business plan. The response to her work has been extremely positive and Montgomery is excited about the future. For Montgomery who has always struggled to get by in the conventional work world, self-employment is the natural choice.

SECTION D: WRITING (10 marks)

I- Write a short paragraph (about 100 words) on the topic: "The importance of time management in a student's life." (5 marks)

Time management is crucial for students as it helps them balance their academic responsibilities with personal life. By managing time effectively, students can complete assignments on time, prepare for exams, and still have time for relaxation and hobbies. Poor time management can lead to stress, missed deadlines, and poor academic performance. Students should prioritize tasks, set goals, and avoid procrastination to make the most of their time. Tools like planners or apps can help students stay organized. Ultimately, good time management skills not only improve academic success but also prepare students for future professional and personal challenges.

II- Write a letter to your friend telling him/her about your plans after high school. (5 marks)

Dear [Friend's Name],

I hope this letter finds you well. I wanted to share my plans after high school with you. I have decided to pursue a degree in Business Administration at the University of Yaoundé. I believe this field will provide me with the skills needed to start my own business in the future.

After completing my degree, I plan to gain some work experience by interning at a reputable company. I also hope to take some online courses in digital marketing to enhance my skills.

I would love to hear about your plans too! Let's catch up soon.

Best regards,
Your Name
